

```
1    p1 and p2 are declared as new instance and objects respectively.
2    So, p1==p2 and p1.equals(p2) are same though,
3    those are not meant that the values are same,
4    but these classes are same. That's why the results are false.
```

5

6

7